

AXIS ATTACKS MEDITERRANEAN CONVOY

Reds Hold Sevastopol as Nazis Launch Offensive

Meandering Along the Main Stem

By WASH FAYETTE

This is eventful day for the readers of the Record-Herald, for it marks the return of those lovable and somewhat goofy characters, Barney Google and Snuffy Smith, to the comic page. Barney and Snuffy have been away for quite awhile, and we've all missed them, but, they've been having some big times during their absence, and made new friends. Snuffy's in the army now, and you'll all be interested in what he's doing and how he's taking to the new life.

Barney and Snuffy have come back to the Record-Herald comic section page to join your old friends and theirs in making life a little brighter, giving you some laughs in these serious times. With them there will be all of your old favorites, we just couldn't let any of them go away now, we need them all to cheer us up, there's Etta Kett, Donald Duck, Brick Bradford, Popeye the sailor, Mugs McGinnis and Little Annie Rooney. They're all back on the comic page waiting to add some spice to your life with their antics, wisecracks and adventures. We turn over to page 7 right now and let them say howdy. Let them in for a little visit every evening, they'll make you feel better, they're such good, wholesome company.

And, while I'm about it I want to remind you of some other features that you might just take as a matter of course, we here in the Record-Herald office give a lot of thought to bringing you the best features we can find, but we realize that you have come to expect them and that it's natural for you just to accept them, when Barney and Snuffy come back they brought with them a couple of new features we feel sure you will like, and we had to do a little shifting around to make room for them because we couldn't put any of them out, there's to be a new panel on the editorial page, it's captioned Laff a Day, it is in the space where you have been accustomed to seeing Scott's Scrapbook, we had to make a place for Scott's Scrapbook, so it is now on the classified and market page 6, on the society page, there is a new feature on needlecraft, such as knitting, crocheting and fancy work, it's very similar to the dress patterns on the comic page which has been so popular, complete details and instructions for each of these is available when you find one that particularly catches your fancy, every once in a while, you will see Sally Sallies on the comic page, and Sally's bright little sallies are always what might be called a good "thought for today", Noah Numskull will be popping in and out of the page too.

Just in case you may have passed them up because you felt you didn't have the time to sit down and read them, I want to call to your attention, and recommend to you strongly as a "must" for your daily newspaper reading, the increasing number of interpretative and analytical by-lined articles on the war and national and international situation, now, if ever, is the time people should keep informed.

And that brings up the last thing I wanted to mention, the new serial story, "Romance Thumbs a Ride," which starts in this issue, why don't you start it by reading the first chapter?

UKRAINE DRIVE RAGES ON

Reds Outnumbered, Six to One
Around Kharkov but Nazi
Assaults Slowed

(By The Associated Press)

Steaming into the fight for Sevastopol with its guns thundering, the Soviet Black Sea fleet was reported today to have brought aid to the hard-pressed land garrison by laying down a deadly barrage which took a heavy toll of the Axis assault forces.

The battles in the tight-drawn siege lines around the Crimean port and on the shell-pocked front east of Kharkov in the Ukraine continued with undiminished fury.

With dwindling time in which to start a grand offensive before they are smitten afank or at the rear on a second European front, the Germans are thrashing at the ramparts of Sevastopol while the remainder of the vast German-Russian front shows signs of an imminent general flareup.

Nazi Losses Heavy

Despite a spendorthrift use of fighting men, which in some sectors outweighed the Red Army and civilian defenders five and six to one, Adolf Hitler still had only the hasty graves of his dead to show for his all-out effort against Sevastopol.

The Crimean port and base of Russia's Black Sea fleet still flew the Hammer and Sickle though no one could say how long the hard-pressed defenders could hold out. The violence of the fight mounted by the hour.

East of Kharkov, where the Germans have been trying for positions from which to launch a grand offensive toward the Caucasus, a battle for rectification of the line was said by the Hitler command to have ended in the German favor.

Reds Stand Firm

If the Russians make their slogan stick—"not another step backward"—Sevastopol will remain a thorn in the flank of the anti-

President in Exile Broadcasts Message To Conquered People, Telling Them Gestapo Responsible, for 'Bestial Horror,' Will Face Stern Justice on First Day of Allied Victory

LONDON, June 15.—Czechoslovak military law, including the death penalty, will be applied to all Nazis responsible for "bestial destruction and barren horror" in the Czech nation after the war, President Eduard Benes declared tonight in a broadcast to his people from London.

He declared that on the first day of victory the policy of personal responsibility would be mercilessly carried out against "all exponents of the Nazi party and the Reich government on Czech territory, beginning with the former protector, Baron Von Neurath, all leaders of the Gestapo and SS formations, and all Germans in the political and military administration of Bohemia and Moravia."

The old Czechoslovakian village of Lidice, near Prague, was wiped out by revenge-seeking Nazis after the death of Reinhard Heydrich, "der henker," who was shot and killed by Czech patriots. All men of the village were reported executed, and the women and children were taken to concentration camps.

The view of Lidice, shown at the left, was taken by Dr. Fred J. Melzer of Cleveland in 1929 when he visited the village, where his wife and two brothers-in-law lived.

AXIS ADVANCES IN LIBYA

By CLAUDE A. FARNSWORTH
(By the Associated Press)

A great running sea-air battle which on the face of Axis reports—the only information available thus far—seems to have stemmed from a major strategic move of the Allies, was being fought today at Italy's Mediterranean door step between Tunis and Sicily.

The location of the battle, the strength and composition given by Rome for the Allied Naval force and the reckless expenditure of planes in the attack on it suggested either that Italian territory itself might be under attack or that the Allies were engaged in a great transfer of strength between Gibraltar and Suez.

The Italian high command, in a special communique, claimed that two cruisers, one destroyer and four steamers were sunk out of one of two British convoys, and a battleship, an aircraft carrier, two cruisers, one destroyer and four steamers heavily damaged.

The Italians said the convoy, attacked was protected by "numerous units of the line and by two aircraft carriers." Spotting the convoy early Saturday, Italians sent their scout planes later lost sight of it and the first attack was not delivered until Sunday.

War in Libya

The Rome radio broadcast a special communique saying that the Axis forces had punched their way through to the coast, by-passing Acroma, west southwest of Tobruk, separating British forces "after sanguinary fighting."

"All big enemy units which remain to the west (in the Ain El Gazala region) have been encircled," the communique said. "The number of prisoners and the quantity of booty cannot be estimated for the moment."

War in China

An invasion column of Japanese striking into Kiangsi province from the east has penetrated into Kwangfeng, 25 miles beyond the Chekiang border, cutting the Chinese-held central section of the Kiangsi-Chekiang rail line to less than 100 miles, the high command said tonight.

A communique said the Japanese first wedged into the city Saturday night and that fierce hand to hand fighting was continuing in the streets.

Casualties were said to be heavy on both sides.

(The Japanese claimed that they had driven 25 miles deeper into Kangsi from the east, reporting the capture of Shanjao (Kwangsin), 50 miles by railroad from the Chekiang border.)

The communique said scores of Japanese planes raided Shangkiao

Lease-Lend Shows How U.S. in War

More for What They Sell
Than They Did Year Ago

WASHINGTON, June 15.—(AP)—President Roosevelt informed Congress today that lease-lend aid up to the end of May totaled $4,497,000,000 and that while the battle of production was on the way to being won, the battle of distribution was "in its critical phase."

"Our reservoir of resources is now approaching flood stage," he said. "The next step is for our military, industrial, and shipping experts to direct its full force against the centers of enemy power."

"Great Britain and the United States . . . are taking combined action to carry our men and weapons—on anything that will float or fly—to the places from which we can launch our offensives."

The President summed up for Congress the results of 15 months of lend-lease operations—with the emphasis finally shifted from foodstuffs and industrial materials to a preponderance of fighting weapons and military items.

The lend-lease program, instituted March 11, 1941, and since

RISE IS HALTED IN FOOD COSTS

Farmers, However, Getting

Than They Did Year Ago

By FRANKLIN MULLIN
CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—

The war inspired agricultural commodity price rise and the almost uninterrupted advance in wholesale food costs since before Pearl Harbor have definitely been halted, at least for the time being, market statistics showed today.

Although farm commodities are exempt from blanket ceilings placed on most processed food costs to consumers, market prices now have retreated from 1942 highs in the case of all major products.

They are still well above year ago levels, however, and experts said this fact, coupled with greatly increased wartime farm production, virtually assures agricultural of near record cash income this year. Preliminary forecasts indicate marketings will yield farmers about $2,000,000,000 more than the $1,100,000,000 plus income they received in 1941. During the first quarter of 1942 cash income was 47 percent greater than a year ago. Largest income on record was $14,600,000,000 in 1919; the smallest since then, less than $5,000,000,000 in 1932.

Price ceilings as of March highs, which went into effect last month

HEADQUARTERS, U. S. ARMY FORCES IN SURINAM, June 15.—The United States soldier in Surinam (Dutch Guiana) is a rugged fighting man.

Six months' service in the Bush country of equatorial South America—service in damp, steamy jungle and on sandy, scorching Savannah—has fitted him for most any fighting frontier.

Most of the troops who landed in Surinam last December, as Units of a U. S. Task force assigned to aid the Dutch in the defense of this strategically-located, bauxite-rich colony, were tropic-seasoned veterans. But even the veterans of Panama and Trinidad have gained new experience in this land of sweat and sand.

Uncle Sam's soldiers were invited to this free Netherlands stronghold to join with Dutch forces—mostly native—in pushing the Allied war effort along

HITLER THANKS RUMANIA FOR FIGHTING HIS BATTLE

BERLIN (From German Broadcasts), June 15.—(AP)—Reichsfuehrer Adolf Hitler expressed gratitude today for the "notable contribution made by Rumania and her brave army" in a message to Rumania's prime minister, Marshal Ion Antonescu, on the occasion of the latter's 60th birthday.

Deductions taken from the men's pay would be supplemented by federal allowances which in some cases would be considerably larger than the fighting men's contributions.

The second section of the bill revises the Selective Service Act by requiring local draft boards to first exhaust supplies of single men, or those without bona fide family ties, before calling up husbands and fathers.

GREENFIELD, June 15.—(AP)—Weeks of anxiety over the welfare of their soldier son, Woodrow, were ended today for Mr. and Mrs. Walter Ravenscraft, farmers residing six miles south of here.

They learned yesterday that Gen. Douglas MacArthur had named the 28-year-old private for one of the first soldier's medal awards in the southern Pacific battle area.

"That is good news," exclaimed the soldier's sister, Betty, when informed that her brother not only was safe but had been cited for gallantry. It was the family's first word of Woodrow in weeks.

Medals were given Ravenscraft and First Lieut. Edward Hubbard of the Medical Corps, whose home is in Petersborough, N. H.

Medals Given Yanks in 1904 Sent Back to Japan on Bomb

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Thirty-four years ago the U. S. battle fleet visited Japan and two sailors on the USS Connecticut—Master Rigger Henry Vormstein of Lakeview, N. Y., and Shipwright John B. Laurey, of Brooklyn—received medals from the Emperor of Japan.

Early this year Vormstein and Laurey sent the medals to Navy Secretary Knox asking that they be returned to Tokyo—attached to a bomb.

Today the Third Naval District released an official letter to Master Rigger Vormstein, now working at the Brooklyn Navy Yard, it said:

"Through the courtesy of the War Department your Japanese medal and a similar medal turned in for shipment by Shipwright John B. Laurey were returned to his royal highness the Emperor of Japan on April 18, 1942.

"I am informed by the Secretary of War that the medals, attached to a 500-pound bomb, were delivered at Tokyo on April 18, 1942, by Lieut. Ted W. Lawson, U. S. Army, with appropriate ceremony."

(Signed) Frank Knox.

Laurey is now at Pearl Harbor, having volunteered on the first call for civilian workers to repair damage done by the Japanese.

Miss Martha Weston looked up from stuffing gray wool into her knitting bag.

"Well?" she said.

"Well what?" Dian Weston asked, turning away from the window.

"Why don't you say something?"

"What is there to say, Aunt Martha?"

"Didn't you hear me tell you that it was bad enough to have one spinster in the family, without having two of them, and one of them jilted?"

"Yes, Aunt Martha, I heard you," Dian shrugged. "But what is there for me to say?"

You've said about all there is to be said about the matter."

"No there's one more thing—Jerome Carr."

"I see . . . So were back at that again?" Dian went back to staring out of the window. "I simply can't marry Jerome," she said.

"But hes the most successful man in Ardendale," said Miss Martha. "He's been in love with you for years, and—"

"Nonsense!" Dian cut in. "How could Jerome be in love with anyone that is, REALLY—when he's got a dollar mark where his heart ought to be?" She walked to a table, found a cigaret and lit it. "I knqw hes a banker and all that, and that the Weston family certainly could do with a banker, but—"

"But what?" said Miss Martha impatiently. "Go on!"

"But why don't you marry him?" said Dian. "Frankly, I'd much prefer a banker-uncle to a banker-husband."

"Well, I never in all my life heard such silly talk!" Miss Martha exclaimed.

"It's not silly," Dian said. "Jerome Carr's always liked you, and I think if you stopped trying to push me down his throat, he'd take time to see that you're the Weston female he wants, and not me."

Miss Martha closed her knitting bag with an angry gesture. She picked it up, looked to see if her hat was on straight, and walked to the door.

"Sometimes, Dian," she said, "you are the most exasperating person alive. You should marry Jerome just to show the town you don't care a darn about being jilted."

"Aunt Martha, I wish you'd stop using that word 'jilted' so freely," Dian said with a wry smile. "It sounds so sort of final and unpleasant."

"It is final—and unpleasant," said Miss Martha. "But now that you have been jilted, and that up-

War Today

Courage of Russians And Fierce Fighting Balk
Hitler's Offense

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
(Wide World News Service)

The Russian lines held staunchly through a bloody week end—and that's the vital news of the hour.

There can be no doubt that Hitler is straining every nerve to get his heavily delayed offensive under way. But it won't roll until he can rip loose a portion of that magnificent Red line somewhere.

Particularly violent fighting continued on the Kharkov front in the Ukraine and before the long-besieged Soviet naval base of Sevastopol on the Crimea in the Black Sea. These operations represent a Nazi effort to crack the gateway into the Caucasus, thereby creating a funnel through which the Nazi chief could pour his waiting legions.

The Germans, employing the tactics which they made so well known in the first World War, have been trying to breach the Red defenses by weight of numbers. It's a method of attack which frequently succeeds—if you don't care how many lives you sacrifice. However, Marshal Timoshenko's Bolsheviks at latest reports were standing off and inflicting heavy losses. That the defenders also were suffering many casualties seemed a foregone conclusion.

Further evidence that the Fuehrer is trying to get his "spring" blitzkrieg going is seen in the boiling up of fierce local attacks throughout the length of the attenuated Russo-German line. One of the most important of these assaults continues against the Arctic port of Murmansk, the rail-head through which vital American and British military supplies are being poured into Russia. The Nazi object, of course, is to cut this lifeline.

Watch Murmansk, if you would keep well informed on the progress of the war, since preservation of this route is essential, and its loss would be a real catastrophe. Don't forget that this is a war of resources. Production and transportation must be maintained at top pitch.

MRS. MARY A. GLAZE IS CALLED BY DEATH

Funeral Service To Be Held
Wednesday Morning

Mrs. Mary A. Glaze, the widow of Edward Glaze, died at her home on the Waterloo pike at 8 o'clock Sunday evening after a comparatively short illness.

Mrs. Glaze, who was 81 years old, was one of the oldest residents of the community where she had lived her entire life. She was born on the adjoining farm.

She is survived by a son, Edward Glaze, at home, and a sister, Mrs. Nellie Bahen of Washington C. H. in her immediate family. She also leaves, however, many more distant relatives and many friends all over the county.

Mrs. Glaze had been in unusually good health until about two years ago but it was not until two weeks ago that she became seriously ill.

As a young woman, Mrs. Glaze taught in one of Fayette County's country schools for 18 years.

Funeral services are to be at St. Colman's Catholic Church at 9:30 o'clock Wednesday morning and interment, in charge of the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home, will be in the Washington Cemetery.

Friends may call at the home.

RUBBER DRIVE IS UNDER WAY ALL THIS WEEK

Government Asks All Scrap Rubber Be Left at Filling Stations

This is the week that America is calling for every ounce of scrap rubber to be left at gasoline service stations.

Regardless of how much or how little rubber there is, every patriotic citizen is urged to act at once and leave the surplus rubber as directed. The drive is for this week only, and the time to act is NOW.

Those who wish pay for the rubber will be given one cent per pound, but those who wish to go beyond that and do something for the boys in arms may give the rubber without pay, and it will be sold and all proceeds go into the USO fund, the great war-time service organization that does so much good for the boys away from home.

Nothing is so small or too badly worn to be turned in as scrap rubber.

Here are some of the things that are included in the scrap rubber wanted:

Hot water bottles, rubber tubing, rubber heels, rubber soles, rubber boots, overshoes, rubber aprons, worn-out tires, garden hose, rubber toys, rubber sponges, old inner tubes, rubber gloves, rubber sheeting, rubber cushions.

Rubber cane tips, rubber crutch tips, rubber girdles, rubber sink mats, auto floor mats, rubber door mats, old stair treads, bathing caps, rubber rain coats, rubber jar rings, weatherstripping, rubber soap dishes, rubber ice bags, rubber buckets, bathing shoes.

City Manager Edwin Ducey, chairman of the Civilian Defense Council, is in receipt of the following telegram from Governor Bricker regarding the drive for scrap rubber:

"Ohio must give the fullest support to the all-out nationwide scrap rubber salvage committee starting Monday, and I urge your council and your salvage committee to devote all the energy possible to attain maximum cooperation for the collection plan announced by the President. You should do everything within your power to stimulate the flow of reclaimable scrap rubber to the gasoline stations."

John W. Bricker, Governor of Ohio.

Every person is asked to gather up all scrap rubber about the premises and bring it to the nearest filling station without delay.

From Washington D. C. comes the following Associated Press article regarding the nation-wide drive for rubber: with the results to be measured in more machines for victory, and possibly a delay of forestallment of nationwide gasoline rationing, millions of Americans today began a search of attics, cellars, backyards and other places of discard for old rubber.

The campaign began by direction of President Roosevelt, who called upon every citizen to turn in "every bit of rubber you can possibly spare."

Each person was requested to take all discarded or spare rubber to the nearest of the 400,000 gasoline filling stations scattered throughout the country. The needed elastic may be donated or sold to the station operator for a penny a pound.

The oil industry announced its entire work force, numbering over 1,000,000 men and women, and its automotive equipment would handle the job of receiving the rubber and assembling it at central points for delivery to the government.

Although officials made no flat statement that a decision on nationwide gasoline rationing would hinge on the campaign, William R. Boyd, Jr., chairman of the petroleum industry war council said that whether automobiles could be kept rolling "depends entirely on the total tonnage of rubber scrap there is." Country-wide gas rationing has been considered as a means of conserving tires.

Boyd emphasized that "any and all profit" accruing to the oil companies in the scrap transactions — between the cent-a-pound for scrap delivered at the service stations and the 25¢ a ton the government will pay for it — would go to the United Service Organizations, the army and navy relief and the Red Cross.

FOUR CONsigned TO WORKHOUSE FROM THIS CITY

Judge S. A. Murry Has Busy Days Presiding in Police Court

Roy Elder, on a charge of loitering about the up-town streets, was taken into custody by the police over the weekend and fined $25 and costs and sentenced to the Dayton workhouse, when he was taken before Judge S. A. Murry in municipal court.

It is just another instance in which arrests and punishment have taken place in an effort to break up promiscuous loitering about the up-town area, and officials say that the drive against idleness is to continue.

At the same time Sam Elder was picked up on a charge of intoxication, fined $25 and costs and was also sentenced to the workhouse.

The two men bring to four the number Judge Murry has sentenced to the Dayton Workhouse within the past few days.

The others were Mrs. Leona Boyer, on a drunk and disorderly charge, when she was fined $10 and cost and given 30 days in the workhouse.

Elton Jenkins, old offender in police court, was the fourth one sent to the workhouse. He was fined $5 and costs and Judge Murry thought 30 days in the Dayton institution would be about right.

Charles Blue, Milledgeville, taken into custody on a driving while drunk charge, posted $56.20 bond, Sunday night, and Monday appeared in court, represented by Charles E. Hire, pleaded innocent and was held to the grand jury with bond fixed at $100.

Betty Keller, Mt. Sterling, was cited on a reckless operation charge and posted $16.20 for her appearance. A $10 bond was also posted for appearance on a previous citation, officers said.

Seven persons were listed for intoxication over the week end.

RISE IN COST OF FOOD HAS BEEN HALTED BUT FARMER GETS MORE THAN YEAR AGO

on most food costs in retail and wholesale trade, directly or indirectly affect farm commodities to varying degrees, experts said.

Some foods, however, such as eggs and poultry, milk products, flour, mutton and lamb, are exempt even in wholesale and retail trade.

Various developments other than price control have had important influence in causing certain commodities to back down from 1942 highs, which, in most cases, were tops for the past several years.

For example, excellent crop weather, generally speaking, with near record harvests in prospect and large carry-over supplies on hand, have helped to depress grains. Butter and eggs have been affected by large supplies coming to market as producers swing into the greatly expanded war production program. This is normally the season for flush production of these commodities. Trade authorities said ceilings on beef and pork have directly affected farmers' markets for cattle and hogs.

The following table of approximate Chicago prices, for comparative purposes only, reflects the agricultural price situation:

	Present	1942 High	Year Ago	World War I Peak
Wheat, bu.	$1.19	$1.35	$1.02	$3.50
Corn, bu.	.86	.93	.73	2.36
Oats, bu.	.49	.60	.36	1.29
Rye, bu.	.65	.96	.56	2.95
Hogs, lb.	14 1/4	14 1/2	10	22
Butter, lb.	36	38 1/2	34 1/2	69
Cattle, lb.	13	13 1/2	10 1/2	16
Eggs, doz.	31	37	25	73

Wholesale food prices have backed down slightly from the 23-year peak reached at mid-May. The latest Dun and Bradstreet index representing the price per pound of 31 foods was $3.66 compared with a high of $3.69 May 19, $3.33 just before Pearl Harbor and $2.97 a year ago.

MAKES THREATS IS NOW IN JAIL

Pittsburgh Man Suffering From Mental Disturbance Is Being Held

After he had halted an automobile driven by a Cleveland resident, on the Leesburg Road near the Rattlesnake bridge at an early hour Sunday morning, leaped upon the running board and made threats, Paul Croll, Pittsburgh, was taken into custody by Sheriff W. H. Icenhower and Deputy Sheriff Otto Reno, and placed in the county jail.

When the man stepped upon the running board and threatened the occupants, the owner of the car gave him a quick shove that sent him reeling backward into the ditch.

Sheriff Icenhower said Croll was suffering mentally, and that late in the night Croll, after causing a great deal of disturbance and destroying property in the jail, broke a waterpipe that flooded the jail and required attention at 3 A. M. Monday morning.

State highway patrolmen contacted the man's sister in Pittsburgh, and she telephoned to Sheriff Icenhower and later sent money to have her brother returned to Pittsburgh.

BROODER HOUSE AND 200 SMALL CHICKENS BURN

$500 Loss Is Sustained By P. R. Armbrust in Night Blaze

Explosion of a kerosene stove is believed to have been responsible for a fire which destroyed a large brooder house, over 200 small chickens, and damaged two other buildings at the P. R. Armbrust farm on the Lewis road just outside the corporate limits of the city at 12:30 A. M. Monday.

The fire had obtained a heavy foothold before it was discovered, and the roof and the sides of the building were crumbling when the fire department arrived at the scene.

From the brooder house the fire spread to the roof of a concrete building, and a small chicken house, causing considerable damage to both, and a total of approximately $500, which is partly covered by insurance.

In addition to the water from the pumper, a bucket brigade assisted in extinguishing the flames.

extended to the British Commonwealth of Nations and 35 other countries, has amounted to $3,673,000,000 in goods and $824,000,000 in such services as repairing ships, ferrying aircraft and providing production facilities in this country.

The goods included $2,601,000,000 of articles transferred, that is, delivered to lend-lease nations at production or export points in this country. Of this amount, $2,138,000,000 has been exported.

The balance of the $3,673,000,000 is accounted for by articles awaiting transfer or use and those in process of manufacture.

Congress requires a report on lend-lease activities from the President every three months, and today's was the fifth.

Former Blue Lion Joins Navy To Aid In Recruit Training

Another former Washington C. H. boy, who starred in the uniform of the Blue Lions on the gridirons of Southcentral Ohio nearly 20 years ago, today was doing his part in the country's war effort by helping fit the U. S. Navy's fighting men for the stern tasks ahead.

Thomas Arthur (Tommy) Rogers, who took up coaching at Denison University at Granville, where he went to school and made a name for himself as a football halfback after his graduation from WHS, reported to take the new course for training instructors for the navy's physical education program.

Rogers, who had risen to the position of head coach at Denison and achieved a wide reputation, will undergo final physical examinations at the Naval Academy and then is to be commissioned a lieutenant, senior grade, for his subsequent work with navy recruits.

Tommy, as he is still known by hundreds of friends and followers of football here, was born in Washington C. H. and went through the city's school system, starting with Miss Agnes Kerrigan in old Sunnyside and finishing high school after his family, Mr. and Mrs. William B. Rogers and his sister, Miss Dorothy, moved to Wilmington. During his last three years of high school, he lived with Miss Edith and Miss Gertrude Gardner, life-long friends of the family. He has lived in Newark, only a short distance from Granville, since joining the Big Red coaching staff.

He had kept those firm friendships of his boyhood alive through the years by frequent visits back to Washington C. H., to which he always referred as "the old home town."

At Annapolis, Rogers probably will meet a former townsman, another former Blue Lion footballer, also a former Blue Lion footballer who took up coaching as a career when he finished his school days at Denison. Campbell went to the Naval Academy to take the same course about a month ago.

Another young man from Washington C. H., Charles Jones, is now at the Great Lakes Naval Training Station helping fit navy recruits through the physical training program.

WORLD'S RECORD NOW EQUALLED BY RED RUFFING

Cincinnati Breaks Even in Sunday Double Bill With Brooklyn

By AUSTIN BEALMEAR (By the Associated Press)

Beside the name of Joe (Iron Man) McGinnity on the list of Gotham's greatest pitchers they wrote another one today—Charles Herbert Ruffing of the world champion New York Yankees.

Charley the Red, winner of more games than any hurler active in the major leagues, chalked up the 251st victory on his 19 year record yesterday to tie the mark left by McGinnity, who often pitched, and sometimes won, doubleheaders for the New York Giants in the early years of John McGraw.

In ten games this year, Ruffing has pitched 83 innings and has gone the distance seven times. He has yielded 69 hits while striking out 39 batters and issuing only 16 bases on balls.

Reds Beats Browns

Yesterday he tossed a five-hitter at the St. Louis Browns, the team that had beaten him twice before in his only reversals for 1942. He pitched the Yankees to a 6-1 victory in the first game and Ernie Bonham finished with a 5-4 decision in the second.

Joe Gordon singled in the opener to stretch his string to 29 consecutive games, but went hitless in the nightcap.

The second-place Boston Red Sox took a pair of close ones from Detroit, 3-2 in the regulation distance and 2-1 in 11 innings.

The Chicago White Sox vacated the American League cellar and turned it over to Washington by crushing the Senators, 9-3 and 11-4. Ted Lyons pitched his fourth victory of the season in the opener, the 249th of his career.

The Cleveland Indians and Philadelphia Athletics divided a double bill, with Luman Harris pitching a three-hitter to give the A's a 5-1 decision in the nightcap after the tribe had won the first game, 8-3.

Reds Get Even Break

Whitlow Wyatt pitched Brooklyn's National League leaders to a 4-1 triumph over the Cincinnati Reds with a three-hit performance in the first game, but

ONE-ARMED, HE HURLS NO-HITTER!

Proving that "where there's a will, there's a way," Mike Marcin, 22-year-old one-armed Cleveland youth, is making a name for himself on the baseball diamond as a softball pitcher. Mike, who lost his arm when a child, recently hurled a no-hit game for the Cleveland Towmoter team as his club whipped another, 17-0, in a Mundy Industrial league game. To prove his ability, Mike socked out a homer, two singles and drew a walk in four trips to the plate. Mike is shown above on the mound and at bat.

Collegiate Golf Tournament Is Top 1942 Amateur Show

(Wide World News Service)

SOUTH BEND, Ind.—The difficult feat of winning the national collegiate golf championship two years in a row confronts slender Earl Stewart of Louisiana State as the nation's crack college golfers point for June 22-27 on the Chain O'Lakes course of the South Bend Country Club.

Notre Dame is host to the tournament, the only amateur competition of national scope to be held this season.

Stewart, who last year turned in a record 142 medal score before defeating Ray Brownell of Stanford in the finals, is apt to meet Brownell again, with the latter attempting to lead the Indians in a successful defense of the team championship.

Returns of last year's two finalists doesn't necessarily augur a team title for either Louisiana State or Stanford because Yale, eastern intercollegiate champions, and Michigan, Big Ten rulers, have strong teams entered.

The tournament, receipts from which will go to the Navy Relief Fund, is expected to draw 175 contestants from 50 schools.

Eighteen holes of qualifying medal play will open the tournament, followed by another 18 to determine the 64 low-score finalists. After two days of 18-hole match play the semi-final will go over the 36-hole route.

Team rankings will be determined on the basis of the first two days of medal play.

NEW YORK, June 15—(P)—Like an order of restaurant hash, the customers at the Polo Grounds got a bit of everything yesterday.

There was a baseball game in which Bob Feller and his navy teammates defeated Hugh Mulcahy and his army supporting cast, 4 to 0; an abbreviated track meet in which Cornelius Warmerdam pole vaulted 14 feet 8 inches and Greg Rice raced two miles on well-dampened grass in 9:52.

In addition, they got a taste of fisticuffs with heavyweight Joe Louis going four rounds with a spar-mate George Nicholson; a tennis match in which Don Budge and Alice Marble lost to Karel Kozeluh and John No-grady, 6-4; a lacrosse game in which the Maryland Collegians defeated the New England All-Stars, 5 to 1, and a girl's softball game in which the first batter attempted a strip-tease.

A trio of corporals represented goldfom with Ed (Porky) Oliver winning the prize by slamming a ball to within three feet, 9 inches of a target 125 yards away.

Only 12,648 dampened spectators sat out the six-hour show. More than 45,000 tickets were sold for the event.

Feller was touched for three hits and fanned seven during the five inning baseball game, with the Bluejackets getting three of their runs in the first frame on a home run by Jim Carlin, former Philadelphia Phil infielder, that found two mates on base.

Saints Get Out Of AA Cellar by Winning Double

(By the Associated Press)

St. Paul is out of the American Association cellar today—hoisted out literally on a shoestring.

It was the only club to sweep a doubleheader Sunday, beating Columbus, 3-2 and 7-6. The twin killing put the Saints just four percentage points out of the cellar and pushed Toledo, which divided with Minneapolis, into last place.

The Millers downed Toledo, 7-2, but lost the nightcap, 4-1. Charley Wensloff registered his eighth win of the season for Kansas City as the Blues cracked Louisville, 5-2, in the first half of a twin bill but the Colonels copped the second encounter, 2-1.

Another masterful twirling chore was hung up by Pete Naktanis, who won his sixth victory by hurling Milwaukee to a 3-2 win over Indianapolis. The Brewers lost the first game by the same score.

OUR WAR EFFORT

"The battle of production has been won," wrote Paul Mallon recently. "American industry went over the top in April, out of the preparatory organizing phase, and into the great American stride of mass production which no one can equal anywhere. From now on the production line on our charts will go nearly straight up."

That is an incredible achievement, and it takes incredible statistics to describe it. In April, our war production was at the rate of $40,000,000 a year. The June rate will be about 25 percent greater. And by the end of this year, the economists confidently predict we will be producing at the rate of $70,000,000 a year.

Our chief danger now seems to lie in the possibility that we may again grow "too cocky" and cause a "let-down" too soon. Also it is essential that those authorities in charge of military strategy for this nation must follow the lead of industry's "all out" program, roll up their sleeves and keep thinking along new and modern lines of warfare. The great contribution to the war made by industry in its throwing aside of old production prejudices and boldly pioneering new techniques, coupled with a patriotic spirit, night and day tireless effort in reaching the goal set, must be matched by those who control the military operations. The day of the socialite colonel, the "cocktail hour" major and the "idolized drawing room general" is over. The war demands something from our army and navy leaders more than bureaucratic officiousness. They must stand on their own merits, not depend on social or political "pull." Not all army and navy officers are that way, nor were all war and navy department officials down at Washington D. C. afflicted with this attitude, but there were too many who did have it. The men in the ranks who do the fighting can be depended upon. They make the best soldiers, sailors and airplane fighters in the world especially when they have good leadership.

In time to come, many a learned book will be written telling just how private industry did its job in this crisis—a job which is unprecedented in world history. Two years ago we were totally unprepared for war. Today we are out-producing nations which devoted most of their resources to getting ready for war, for a decade or more. In Mein Kampf, Hitler says time and time again that the democracies are weak, spineless, unwilling and unable to fight. The Japanese also pinned abundant faith on that supposition. This country, along with the other United Nations, is showing Hitler how tremendously wrong he was.

American industry has done far more than turn its plants from the production of the necessities and luxuries of peace to the production of the instruments of war. It has worked on the basis that nothing is impossible. The skeptics said, for instance, that the assembly-line principle could never be successfully applied to the manufacture of fighting airplanes. Ford, Boeing, Consolidated and other plants have proved otherwise—in Seattle, San Diego, Willow Run and elsewhere some of the finest military airplanes the world has ever seen are being made almost as swiftly as automobiles were made in the old days. Skeptics were certain forecasts of tank production were fantastically high. Chrysler and other makers, to the contrary, are today well ahead of the forecasts and are going farther steadily.

All over the country plants, little as well as big, are setting new production records in a hundred war-material fields. Delays still occasionally occur because of lack of materials, labor difficulties, etc. But those delays grow fewer.

There is only one dark spot—merchant ship output. The ship-builders have done an excellent job in the face of staggering technical difficulties, but the fact remains that United Nations' losses are somewhat ahead of replacements. For some time delivery of steel plate was behind schedule. However, existing yards are steadily upping their output, and some gigantic new yards, on both the Atlantic and Pacific Seaboards, will shortly go into operation. In this as in other war fields, some revolutionary changes are taking place in production methods. In the last war, it took close to a year to make the 8,800-ton Liberty ships we used then. A Portland, Oregon, yard recently produced a 10,800-ton freighter of the standard type we are building now in 60 days. And it is believed certain that still faster production will soon be commonplace.

The warship building program is reported ahead of schedule. Special emphasis is laid on the production of the destroyers which are needed for convoy duties, and for protecting ships-of-the-line in naval squadrons. And the U. S. submarine fleet is growing satisfactorily.

Not until the war is over and the information is of no use to the enemy will it be possible to tell the whole story of America's production effort. What can be said now is that no nation or group of nations ever did so much in so short a period of time. At the end of the last year, Von Ludendorff wrote, in bitter admiration, that the United States understood how to wage war. The cold production figures show that the United States understands it better still today.

Have you noticed that the "fellows who know all the answers" often fail in every thing they try to do but they still "know all of the answers"?

Washington at a Glance

By Charles P. Stewart

The food rationing we've experienced thus far hasn't been a circumstance to what it promises to develop into under the committee just set up under Agriculture Secretary Claude R. Wickard's chairmanship, but with War Production Board Chief Donald M. Nelson, doing most of the actual bossing, assisted by the heads of about two dozen other emergency agencies each making suggestions ad libitum.

There are rows over rubber and gas rationing already, but, after all, folk don't literally go hungry for rubber and gasoline and they do for food.

Not that I suppose anybody'll be denied a sufficiency to keep him from losing weight. However most of us have a few favorite dishes that we like a great plenty of, and some of them may be cut down on pretty hard. Illustratively, we're slightly pinched as to sugar now, and my wife, who has quite a sweet tooth says she doesn't get enough. I give her most of what's coming to me for my teeth aren't particularly sweet. I have a strong predilection for tomato juice, though, and what I'm betting is that this new committee will soon be rationing that to such an extent that it'll have to be served to me with a medicine dropper instead of the big pitcherful of it that my appetite craves.

In short, I don't believe that many of us will get all of what he or she especially wants.

International in Scope
The aggravating part of it will be that the rationing won't be exclusively to economize on edibles that we, as Americans, are rather shy on. If we're nationally so short of some sort of chuck that each individual must be contented with a comparatively small plateful of it, or part of it will have to go entirely without, I take it that most of us will be willing to share and share alike with everybody else in the United States. This coming period of rationing, however, is to be on an international scale. That is to say, we and all the rest of the anti-Axis democracies are to be in on it.

Suppose, for example, that we, here at home have ample resources in apple pie for just as much as there's an appetite for at every table in our own land, but suppose that Britain, Russia and the Chinese are fairly perishing for apple pie. In that event we'll have to content ourselves with half a slice apiece in order to divide up with these allies of ours.

My guess is that it'll make a Yankee apple pie fiend kinda sore to feel that he's being stinted, not for his own countrymen's benefit, but for the benefit of the British, Russians and Chinese.

It's true, they'll be doing the same thing to supply us with their various specialties out may be they'll be specialists that American apple pie eaters aren't interested in.

Getting this system inaugurated was the purpose of the recent visit paid to Washington by London's Production Minister Sir Oliver Lyttleton. He took the

Gallbladder Serves as Reservoir for Bile

By LOGAN CLENDENING, M. D.

AMONG ITS many functions, the liver secretes bile. It manufactures bile from the remains of broken-down red blood cells. The bile flows in small channels and

Dr. Clendening will answer questions of general interest only, and then only through his column.

Bile ducts until it empties into the intestine in its upper part. A peculiarity of the bile canal system is that it backs up into a reservoir or sac called the gallbladder.

Just exactly what purpose the gallbladder has is more or less a mystery. It can be removed in man without any outward consequence. A great many animals do not have a gallbladder, among these, the horse, the deer, the elephant, the rat, the pocket gopher and the pigeon. "Why," writes a certain pathologist, with Byronic despair, "the cow should possess a gallbladder, but not the rat, the striped gopher but not the pocket gopher, the hen but not the pigeon is certainly difficult of explanation."

I am sure that I cannot explain it. I presume this pathologist has asked the pocket gopher and received no satisfactory reply.

Reservoir for Bile

The most reasonable explanation for the existence of the gallbladder is that it stores bile when it is excreted in excess and allows it to be poured out at intervals as the digestion in the intestine needs it. After removal of the gallbladder but not the rat, the striped gall duct dilates and really takes the place of the gallbladder in forming a reservoir.

The bile is discharged into the intestine when fat is present and plays an important part in the digestion of fat. It also plays a very important part in our well-being.

I remember one eminent surgeon who had a gallbladder operation after which his bile did not flow into the intestine for several weeks. He described a sense of melancholy that settled on him, a lack of interest in any meal, and the delight which he experienced when the bile finally did begin to flow out and he began to digest his fats.

Gallbladder Physiology

Another moot point about gallbladder physiology is whether it empties its contents more or less passively or by contraction of its own muscles. The consensus of opinion at the present time is that it empties by contraction of its muscles in the presence of fat in the intestine. Thus we can empty a gallbladder by giving a fat meal, such as the yolk of an egg or a well-buttered piece of toast, and this fact is helpful in the treatment of certain forms of gallbladder infection.

It is interesting to note that pregnant animals the gallbladder does not empty very readily even with the presence of fat in the intestine. This has significance in view of the fact that pregnancy often precipitates an infection of the gallbladder and gallstones, probably due to the fact that the stasis of the bile during this period renders infection easy.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

H. L. E.:—Does plain white sugar destroy calcium? Would a glass of warm water containing a teaspoonful of salt taken each morning before breakfast harden the arteries or lift the blood pressure above normal?

Answer: Sugar has no effect on calcium whatever. Warm water and salt have no effect on the blood pressure or on hardening of the arteries.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

Hitler found out that his high powered mechanized and motorized army bogged down in the snow and mud of the Russian Winter. Although our Army is largely mechanized the cavalry horse is still a highly essential factor in this mounted division and in the Field Artillery. The Army also maintains remount farms where many cavalry horses are bred and raised.

These select horses cost from $100 to $165 and our crack cavalrymen are expert riders and carry on the traditions which have followed the cavalry from the earliest days of the Army. Purchase of War Savings Bonds will insure good mounts for the Cavalry. You and your neighbors buying War Bonds and Stamps regularly every pay day can help buy these horses for the U. S. Cavalry. start Fred Mayhew is out of the way, you ought to give Jerome Carr some encouragement. You know perfectly well he would have tried to see a lot more of you if Fred hadn't been hanging around all the time."

"I hardly think marrying Jerome because of Fred is going to help matters any," Dian said quietly.

"Why not, pray?"

"I'd make Jerome miserable—I don't love him. He talks dollars, sleeps percentages, and eats dividends."

"I see. And yet you'd be perfectly willing for me to marry him."

"Yes, I would. The very qualities I dislike about him, you seem to like."

"All I've got to say is that all this talk is getting us exactly nowhere," said Miss Martha.

"I'm awfully glad you realize that at last, Aunt Martha," said Dian. "Now, trot along to your All Out Aid to Britain knitting orgy—and leave me to handle my own life."

"Just how are you going to handle it, if I may ask?" Miss Martha asked. "Being a spinster in Ardendale is no fun. And I am speaking from experience."

"Oh, I'll open a tearoom," said Dian, trying to sound carefree. "Or I may go out to the farm—and raise chickens or mushrooms, or something like that. Or I may devote my life to good works."

"Humph!" said Miss Martha. "That's what I've been trying to do for years, and where has it got me?"

"On lots of committees," Dian smiled. "Why, honestly, Aunt Martha, half the clubs and societies in Ardendale would die of stagnation if it weren't for you!"

"It's no use—flattery isn't going to help," said Miss Martha. "The fact remains that Fred Mayhew jilted you—after all the years you and he have talked of marrying. And I'll probably have to rack my brain for explanations, since practically every woman I know will be curious, and—"

"Well, let them be curious," Dian flared. "What has happened between Fred and me is none of their business."

"They'll make it their business," Miss Martha retorted. "You know that as well as I do."

Before Dian could reply to this, there was the sound of an automobile horn honking out in front of the house.

"There's Aggie Powers now!" said Dian, relieved. "Hurry, or you'll be late for the meeting."

She patted her aunt's shoulder, gave her a quick kiss. "Sorry you wouldn't let me drive you to the meeting myself."

"Why should I?" said Miss Martha. "Aggie's going anyway, and there's no need using our gas if we don't have to."

Dian laughed. "You sound just like Jerome," she said.

Miss Martha tried to think of something to say, and couldn't. She marched out of the room, head up, thin shoulders back, looking, Dian thought, as though she had substituted a broomstick for her backbone.

"Will you be very late?" Dian called out after her.

"I don't know," Miss Martha called from the front porch. "Don't wait up for me." Then when she saw Dian appear in the doorway, she said: "Why don't you ask Jerome to take you to a movie?"

"What a marvelous suggestion!" Dian said mockingly. "Perhaps I will!"

"I'd certainly like to see you do something sensible for once!" was Miss Martha's parting shot.

Dian watched her climb into Miss Aggie's sedan and drive off. Then she sank down upon the upper step, and stared straight before her. It was a perfect night for romance. The air was filled with the perfume of honeysuckle, the moonlight bathed the world in silver, and the down back of the house somewhere, in a cabin where slaves once lived, a Negro was strumming a banjo and singing a love song. But it was all lost on Dian. She wasn't in the least interested in the scents, sights and sounds that made the night one for romantic goings-on and exciting adventures. So far as she was concerned, romance was a washout, an adventure something manufactured by book publishers and Hollywood directors.

"Darling Dian, we'll be married just as soon as I get established," Fred Mayhew's own words, spoken under romantic circumstances. And she had believed them, trusting, sentimental little fool that she was! And now those other words in the local paper, telling of Fred's engagement to Miss Marie Van Wert of New York. "The romance began on shipboard, as Mr. Mayhew was returning from South America where he had gone on a business trip." No romance! No romance! Oh, well, Dian, be modern—be nonchalant. "I've just been jilted! Isn't it a perfect scream?" That's it! Good girl! Laugh. You know, laugh though your heart be breaking, like the clown in the circus. Or was it the opera?

CHAPTER TWO

NOT THAT Dian's heart was breaking because Fred was going to marry another. She didn't really think it was. But she was humiliated, and mad. And she wanted to get away. "I'm probably silly and cowardly," she told herself, "but I can't stay here another day, and I have Aunt Martha looking at me in the pitying way of hers. If only she could go somewhere away from Aunt Martha, and questions, and curious looks. If only she could find a quiet spot way off somewhere, and there—"

The farm! That was just the place for her! Out there, putting around, looking over the things her grandfather Weston had left her, she might be able to think things out, plan some sort of future for into the house and up the stairs.

Up in her room, she quickly found a suitcase and began stuffing things into it, excited, eyes shining, fingers flying. The farm! How wonderful! That place where she had often gone when she was a little girl—out to stay with her grandfather and have him talk to her in such a way as to make her forget the thing that had made her unhappy in town, and had sent her out to the comfort of his arms. If he were only out there now, she thought. He would listen, like old times, to her tale of woe and help her find a way to rise above what was troubling her.

"Mustn't let your Aunt Martha make you too unhappy," her grandfather had said. "She's a bit soured on the world at times—like most women who never got married—but way down deep she's a mighty fine person . . ." And again he had said: "Nothing will ever get you down unless you let it. You're a Weston child, and a Weston man or woman, is a lot bigger than any little old problem that comes along trying to ride him."

Anyway, being out in the house that was so pregnant with memories of her grandfather and the happy days she had spent there with him, would be a help. Out there in the house that Grandfather Weston had loved so deeply, she would find it easier to get hold of herself. She might even start cataloging the books her grandfather had left her. She had been planning to do this for some time, and perhaps now was the time. Cataloging books ought to be a nice job for a girl who had been jilted!

She finished her packing, donned a hat, and picked up the suitcase. She stopped in the kitchen long enough to slip in some bread, a tin of coffee, and a few things she knew the farmhouse pantry could not supply. This done, she went out through the back door, locked it behind her, and crossed the yard to where the Weston family car stood—a car which had been in the family for a forgotten number of years, and which, she thought, ought to be relegated to a museum that specialized in antiquities.

She climbed in and slid under the wheel, thinking how fortunate it was that Aunt Martha had decided to save gas and go to the meeting in Miss Aggie's sedan. She pressed her foot down upon the starter. Well, here I go! Dian Weston, running away from gossip and questions! Dian Weston, going off by herself to see what she could do about the years to come!

But nothing happened. The engine did not respond. Stubborn, like Aunt Martha, that's what it was. She pressed the starter again and again. Still nothing happened. More pressing, more silence. Then finally there was a spell of coughing, of wheezing, of sputtering—but that was all. The engine underneath the old-fashioned hood just curled up like a sick puppy and died. There was no getting away so far as the ancient Weston bus was concerned.

Slowly Dian got out of the car, and slowly she walked around it, thinking words she had never heard in Sunday school. No flame! And now no car! A vehicle on four wheels, and as useless as a huge white elephant. Warily, worried, she took her suitcase from the rear seat where she had carefully placed it, and went around to the front of the house.

Of course the logical thing to do was telephone for a taxicab, although taxicabs were none too plentiful in Ardendale. But she had exactly one dollar and ninety-four cents to her name, and the taxi fare out to her lonely destination would be that much, if not more. She also thought of several young men who would probably be glad to drive her out to where she wanted to go. But she simply couldn't face them. It was bad enough having Aunt Martha pity her, let alone the young men. Heavens, no! The young men were definitely out, especially those who had wanted to date her up and couldn't, because Fred Mayhew was always hanging around, waiting to take her to a movie, or a dance, or to see a show playing a one-night stand in town.

"Oh, Lord," she said half aloud, "am I in a mess!"

She even thought of calling Jerome Carr. Jerome had the finest car in Ardendale—a car that would get her to her destination in no time at all, if Jerome would let her have the gas. But of course he wouldn't. Jerome was so terribly, terribly careful about everything—like speeding, spending money, making love. Besides, he was one of the people she wanted to avoid. He would ask a million questions, give her unwanted advice, and probably end up by urging her to marry him right away, now that that aimless young upstart Fred Mayhew was out of the way. She could fairly hear him describing Fred in just those words. No, Jerome was out—along with the men of her own generation.

She sat down the suitcase with a dull thud, and it fell open. A number of articles tumbled out—simple clothing for wear in the country, a loaf of bread to eat with some of the canned foods which she knew were in the farmhouse pantry, some dainty undies—"which might have been part of my trousseau"—and a pair of low-heeled, sensible looking shoes.

It was when she was picking up the shoes that she heard the approaching car. Still holding one of the shoes, she straightened up to see who was coming. Maybe it was Aunt Martha and Miss Aggie, returning from the meeting. It was early, and yet she had taken an awful lot of time trying to get the car started. But it wasn't Aunt Martha and Miss Aggie in Miss Aggie's sedan. It was a roadster with the top down, and if it wasn't Joe Algood's, then she didn't know the local roadsters when she saw them.

The roadster was almost in front of the house. She waved wildly. "Joe!" she called. "Joe Algood!" But the roadster went right on by.

"Well, of all things!" Dian gasped. And then almost before she realized what she was doing, she let fly with the shoe which she was still holding. "There!" she cried angrily. "Take that! You're a fine one—not stopping when I call!"

And then the roadster did stop—just before it hit a tree.

Miss Janice Woollard and Mr. Miron J. Williamson United in Marriage Sunday

Beautiful Wedding Performed in First Presbyterian Church; Witnessed by Relatives and Close Friends

In a wedding of impressive dignity and exceptional beauty, Miss Janice Woollard plighted her troth to Mr. Miron J. Williamson, Sunday afternoon, as the hands of the clock approached five. The double ring ceremony was performed in the First Presbyterian Church, with the immediate families and close friends attending. The bride is the charming elder daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Fred D. Woollard, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond J. Williamson, of Cedarville.

The chancel had been decorated with effective simplicity, forming a beautiful background for the bridal party. A mass of lilies, roses, delphinium and fern filled baskets banking the pulpit stand. Rising high on either side, white cathedral candles burned in two seven-branch candelabra, surmounting tall white standards. Flanking the standards were white wicker baskets filled with Madonna lilies and snowballs. The reserved pews were marked with clusters of arbutoviae.

The church was decorated by Miss Clara Zimmerman and Mr. Raymond and Elmer Zimmerman.

Preceding the ceremony, there was a beautiful program of wedding music. Miss Elizabeth Myler sang beautifully two numbers, "Because" and "Through the Years," and Mr. Hughie Backenstoe, a talented organist played several numbers, exceptionally delightful and appropriate.

With the sounding of the Mendelssohn Wedding March, Rev. Kirkpatrick, of Cedarville College, accompanied by Dr. J. Roby Oldham, approached the altar to meet the bridegroom and his best man, Captain Everett R. Francis, of Accra, Gold Coast, Africa.

Ushers were Mr. Donald Williamson, of Cedarville and Mr. Frederick R. Woollard, of Port William.

Preceding the bride was her maid of honor, her sister, Miss Jeanne Woollard. She was lovely and beautiful in a gown of aqua chiffon, made with full waist, and round yolk, banded by a tight girdle, full, flowing skirt and long full sleeves. She wore a single strand of pearls, and in her dark tresses was a cluster of yellow rosebuds. She carried an arm bouquet of Johanna Hill roses and yellow daisies.

A very lovely bride, fair and graceful, approached the altar on the arm of her father, who gave her in marriage. Her beautiful blonde coloring was set off to advantage by her fashionable wedding gown of white chiffon. Her gown was in basque effect, with an insert of exquisite lace from the high neck to the waist, and on which were tiny buttons. The sleeves were long and full, and her shoulder length veil was a Juliet cap of bridal net, with braided satin trim, exceptionally lovely. She carried superb shower bouquet of Parrot roses and orchids.

The bride's gifts to her maid and Miss Myler were lovely pieces of jewelry.

The bridal party held an informal reception at the rear of the church before leaving for the bride's home, where Dr. and Mrs. Woollard entertained an informal reception, the guests confined to relatives of the bride and bridegroom.

A profusion of June roses were in luxuriant arrangements throughout the attractive home. In one living room, a long basket filled with pink carnations, snapdragons, delphinium, baby breath and fern, banked the mantel, and was greatly admired. The Buck Florists arranged the home decorations.

The bridal table was a picture, a lovely low watergarden of Parnet roses, white snapdragons and baby breath centering the lace cloth. On either side cathedral candles burned in double crystal sticks. Wedding conceits were prettily introduced.

A three-tiered wedding cake, covered with rosebuds, was most beautiful.

When the bride tossed her flowers from the stairway, Miss Frances Williamson, a sister of the bridegroom, caught it.

Mrs. Woollard was smartly gowned in poudre blue crepe, with a chic small hat of navy, the top covered with pink flowers, most becoming. Mrs. Williamson, mother of the bridegroom, was wearing a handsome gown of navy blue with white figure, with navy accessories.

Their corsages were of pink rosebuds and delphinium.

Showered with rice and good wishes Mr. and Mrs. Williamson left on a motoring trip to Chicago, Illinois.

The bride's going away attire was a costume suit of heavenly blue and white print, with white

Miss Anna Liscicandro Is Charming June Bride of Mr. Robert M. Himiller

Simplicity was the keynote of a pretty wedding which united in marriage Miss Anna Liscicandro, daughter of Mrs. Peter Liscicandro, and Mr. Robert M. Himiller, son of Mrs. Charles M. Himiller, as the hands of the clock approached one, Sunday afternoon.

It was a most impressive nuptial service, read by Dr. J. Roby Oldham in the First Presbyterian Church Manse. Mr. and Mrs. James Shoemaker were their only attendants and witnesses.

The extremely pretty young bride was lovely in her ultra-smart costume of shell-pink, with white accessories, most becoming to her very dark beauty. A dainty and unusual corsage of exquisite little forget-me-nots added to her stunning ensemble.

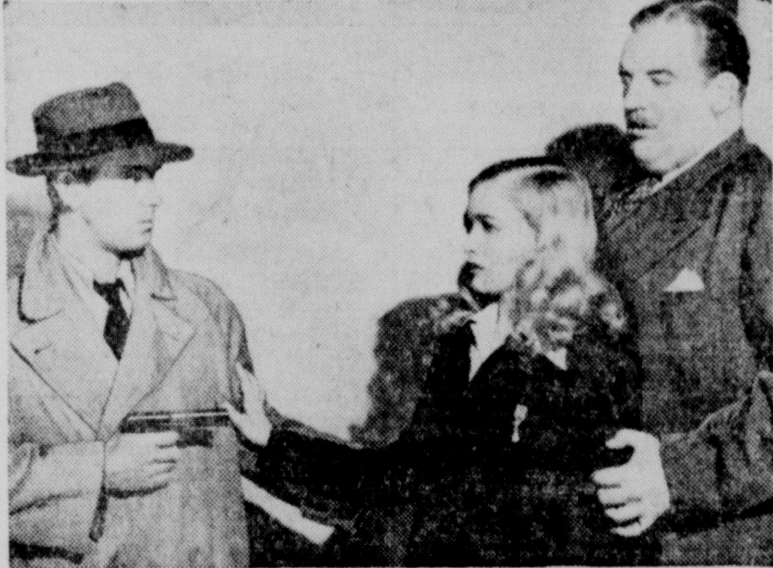

The announcement elicits the good wishes and felicitations galore, as it unites two of the city's most popular young members of the social set.

The charming young bride has always been a favorite in both older and younger groups, and an extremely popular and vivacious young person. She is a member of Phi Beta Psi.

The bridegroom is a sterling and likeable young man, and has a wide circle of friends both in Washington C. H. and throughout Fayette County. He is now engaged in farming.

No definite plans of the young couple have been announced, at present they are residing with Mrs. Charles Himiller on South Fayette Street.

Congenial visiting was spent during the afternoon.

Those present with Private Charles Minshall were: Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Crouse and Miss Mary Crouse of Mt. Sterling, Mrs. Faye Wilson, Miss Freda Wilson and Mrs. Helen Woods of Sabina, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Minshall, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Waters and family, Mr. and Mrs. William Anderson and family, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Edgington and family, Mrs. Mary Stewart, Ronnie Yoho, Mr. and Mrs. Mark Haines, Mr. Gilbert Yoho and Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Smith and daughter, Arlene.

Marjorie Andrews Is June Bride of Marion Faulhaber

A quiet and impressive wedding was solemnized Saturday evening at eight o'clock, uniting in marriage Miss Marjorie Andrews, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. G. E. Andrews, and Mr. Marion Faulhaber, son of Mrs. Goldie Faulhaber, of Cincinnati.

The wedding was read by Rev. Fred I. Gardner, of the Church of Christ, at the home of the bride's parents, with a few friends and relatives witnessing it.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Arthur Robinette, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor and best man.

The bride, who is gifted in both beauty and personality, had selected a smart brown linen suit with which she wore accessories. Her flowers were a shoulder corsage of red rosebuds.

Immediately following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Andrews served a delicious wedding collation to the wedding party.

Definite plans have not been announced by the young couple.

Recital Postponed

Because of illness in the immediate family, Mrs. O. D. Farquhar has had to postpone her recital scheduled for Monday evening in the First Presbyterian Church.

No definite date has been set for the recital, but it will be in the near future.

Picnic Supper Entertained at Harry Fichthorns'

The rain failed to dampen the gay spirits of the members of the Christian Endeavor of McNair Church on Friday evening, when they gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fichthorn for a picnic supper. The tables had to be removed from the lawn, but the spacious side porch provided ample space for the serving of a delicious and bountiful picnic supper. The members and their guests were seated at three large tables. Spring flowers were used as centerpieces for each table. At one large table a gorgeous bowl of red roses, white daisies and blue larkspur was the gift of Mrs. Clara Morgan. The red, white and blue flowers made an ideal arrangement, and were appropriate in commemoration of Flag Week.

The party was strictly a social affair, and brought together several new members of the organization as well as one former member who is now a member of the United States Army. Pvt. 1st Class Herschel Plummer was an active member of the society before his enlistment, and is stationed at Camp Williams, Camp Douglas, Wisconsin. At the present time he is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. David Whiteside.

Guests for the evening included Paul Warnecke, Douglas Young, Miss Anita Young, Mrs. Clara Morgan, Mrs. David Whiteside and Mr. and Mrs. S. E. Fichthorn. Several new members were present, including Mrs. John Simons, Mrs. Veri Shasteen and Mrs. Eugene Junkins.

Good Fellowship Class

Mrs. Laura Shackelford and Mrs. Gladys Clark entertained the Good Fellowship Class of the Church of Christ with a wiener roast and potluck supper. Forty-one members and three guests were present. Following the supper, Mrs. Ted Ervin conducted the devotionals and the short business session was in charge of DeForest Chaney. Hostesses for the July meeting are Mrs. DeForest Chaney and Mrs. Herman Dove.

Masters Degree

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Craig motored to Columbus Monday evening to attend commencement exercises at Ohio State University at which time their daughter, Miss Geraldine Craig received a Master of Arts degree in elementary education.

"UNCLE SAM" wants Your Gas Range to LAST!

Your Gas Range is one of the most durable of cooking appliances — a reliable, economical servant. It will give you perfect performance for years if you exercise a little care in its use.

Easy-To-Follow Hints for Longer Service

HOW TO PRESERVE THE ENAMEL

1. After use wipe range enamel with soft dry cloth while range is warm. ... NOT HOT.
2. If further cleaning of your range is necessary, wash with mild soap, rinse and dry.
3. Don't place wet dishes, bottles or glasses on top of the range.

HOW TO CARE FOR TOP BURNERS

1. Wipe burners with cloth after use.
2. When necessary, clean with mild soapy water, rinse and dry thoroughly.
3. If burners become clogged, clean with stiff brush. Modern range burners are non-clog.
4. Do not boil aluminum or enamel burners in soda. Cast iron burners may be boiled in a solution of one tablespoon sal soda to each three quarts of water. Wipe dry and turn upside down to drain before replacing.

HOW TO CLEAN THE BROILER

1. Remove broiler pan and grill after food has been served.
2. Allow broiler pan and grill to cool before washing.
3. Wash broiler compartment with soap and warm water.
4. If broiler is beneath oven, remove empty broiler pan when oven is in use.

HOW TO CLEAN THE OVEN

1. If boil-overs occur, allow oven to cool and then remove char with a good cleaner or fine steel wool.
2. Wash sides, bottom, door and racks of oven with warm water and soap.
3. Do not place oven bottom into water if it is insulated.
4. Low temperatures roasting of meat reduces spattering of grease ... minimizes oven cleaning.

pated German drive toward the Caucasus which even now seemed to be taking its preliminary form in the Kharkov sector north of the Crimean Peninsula.

There the Germans were attempting to exploit wedges driven into the lines recently rectified by a Russian offensive. These gains likewise cost the Germans heavily in machines and men—2,850 troops lost within the past two days, according to today's Moscow communique.

Bitter fighting at many scattered points on the rest of the front suggested that the whole battle-line may be springing into new action.

The war with Russia, which Adolf Hitler said months ago was all over except for the mop-up, will be one year old next Monday.

On 'Second Front' An American volunteer with the RAF, Squadron Leader W. B. Cooper, of St. Petersburg, Fla., sank two out of three ships in an Axis convoy off the coast of Holland.

Norway and France appeared currently as the most active sectors of anti-Nazi violence within Hitler's New Europe.

Stockholm reported that many persons had been wounded in a battle between quilingists and other Norwegians near Trondheim where the Norwegian Nazis entered the towns of Rissa and Selbu to "take reprisals."

Another Stockholm dispatch said that Vidkun Quisling, premier of the German puppet government, was meeting with his ministers and pro-Nazi party leaders at Oslo to study the political situation in all parts of Norway.

The Paris City Hall was shaken yesterday by a small bomb planted in an underground passage but only the German radio reported casualties—injury to two persons.

MARKETS AT A GLANCE

CHICAGO WHEAT—Easy; profit taking, hedging reduces early gain. CORN—About steady; trade quiet. HOGS—10-15c higher; top $14.35; small Monday supply. CATTLE—Steers, yearlings steady to strong. NEW YORK STOCKS—Steady; air transports advance. BONDS—Irregular; price changes narrow.

GRAIN MARKET NEWS SUMMARY CHICAGO, June 15.—(AP)—Wheat prices rose almost a cent, rye nearly 2 cents and soybeans even more than that during early dealings in the futures market today but a subsequent reaction wiped out much or all of the gains.

Reports of wet weather delays to wheat harvest in the southwest, of lend-lease purchases of rye flour for Russia and of government plans to reduce the 1943 wheat acreage were bullish factors. Soybean buyers were stimulated by the fact that the loan rate on farms is higher than current prices. Later, scattered profit taking and hedging sales caused the reaction.

Wheat closed unchanged to 1/4c lower compared with Saturday, July 1.18 1/2c, Sept. 1.21 1/4c; corn unchanged to 1/4c higher, July 86-86 1/2c, Sept. 88 3/4c; oats 2c off to 1/4c up; soybeans 1-1 1/4c higher; rye 3/4c-1/2c lower.

landed in shark-infested waters at an Australian port. Hubbard smashed a window, crawled onto a wing, and then returned into the submerged place twice to rescue enlisted men.

Ravenscraft freed a fellow soldier pinned down by a machine gun. Then, out on the wing, Ravenscraft was dragged under water by another rescued soldier. He fought free and regained the wing, together with the soldier.

The Ohio hero, graduate of Greenfield High School, entered service with a field artillery unit last November. He has a brother, Wallace, who also is in the armed service.

NEW YORK, June 15.—(AP)—Stocks swung over a narrow orbit in today's market with few strong or weak spots appearing. The trend direction was foggy and dealings slow. Fractional minus and plus signs were pretty evenly divided. Many potential buyers who felt the list was in a better technical condition, inclined to hang back pending more conclusive war developments, brokers said.

Wheat Storage on Farm Will Mean Extra Money

THAT'S THE TIP GIVEN BY AAA CHAIRMAN HERE

Growers Are Warned Storage Space May Be Inadequate Again This Harvest

Storage on the farm probably will mean extra dollars in the pockets of Fayette County wheat growers, Harry Silcott, chairman of the Fayette County AAA committee, said today.

"The farmer who is eligible for a loan on his wheat will receive $3.24 a bushel for his wheat plus an additional 7 cents a bushel storage, making a total of $3.31 a bushel," he pointed out.

Farmers who have not as yet constructed storage space on the farm for their grain need only review what happened in 1941 to get an insight into what probably will happen this year, Silcott declared.

"There was an enormous movement of wheat in the short harvest season of 1941," he recalled, "and farmers who lacked storage space and who had to sell their wheat received about 20 cents a bushel less than the future option prices of the Chicago Board of Trade."

The AAA chairman predicted that the situation will be worse this year for farmers "caught short of storage space," and he added that farmers in such a predicament probably will get 20 to 30 cents a bushel less than the 1942 loan price.

Silcott's advice to Fayette County farmers is to "get busy now and rig up some storage bins while there is time."

"Seal your corn cribs if you have to," he said. "This will be the best solution in many cases. The sealed corn cribs will afford temporary storage, and it will be easier to find a place to store the corn."

Silcott warned farmers not to bank too much on the Commodity Credit Corporation's steel storage bins, which the AAA now is moving into the state, nor the pre-fabricated wooden bins which the CCC is contracting to have manufactured.

"The steel storage bins will alleviate the storage situation only slightly," he said. "Their total capacity of 1,250,000 bushels of wheat represents only a 'drop in the bucket' and will be reserved for 1941 wheat. It is doubtful that many farmers will be able to purchase the pre-fabricated wooden bins in time for harvest, since there has been a delay in contracting for their construction, and because the harvest season on will very likely come early this year."

The best advice that anybody can give farmers who want to protect their cash wheat crop is to start construction of some kind of farm storage bin immediately," the AAA chairman concluded.

WAYNE WONDER WORKERS GET NEW CONSTITUTION

A demonstration on attaching a zipper on a garment, given by Lois Davis, was included on the Wayne Wonder Worker's program when they held their fourth meeting at the home of Lois Davis. Nine members answered the roll call by naming their favorite flower. The only member absent was the president, Ruth Moon.

After the business meeting the demonstration was given and Winifred Hoppes was appointed to give another demonstration on zippers at the next meeting. More work was also done on their dresses with help from the leader.

Heleen Zurface and Winifred Hoppes, completed the constitution and by-laws and also worked out the programs for the next few meetings. This work was made into a booklet form and given to the secretary.

Chicken sandwiches, deviled eggs, cookies and lemonade were served at the close of the meeting.

Hearts, a letter game and flinch were played by the older members while the younger ones played hide and go seek.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Stevie Shubert on Friday, June 19.

PARTITION SUIT

A partition suit has been filed in Common Pleas Court by Gertrude H. Lampe, one of the heirs of Scott Hays, who was found dead in his barn on the Prairie Road a week ago.

The plaintiff asks that her portion of the estate, upward of 300 acres located in Paint Township, be set aside. She claims one-seventh of the estate. John B. Hill represents the plaintiff.

FRANKFORT BOY KILLED IN CRASH OF ARMY BOMBER

Richard Reynolds, Youthful Pilot, Loses Life in 'Atlantic Area'

A young man who had many friends in Washington C. H. and Fayette County has given his life for his country, though not in actual combat.

Richard Reynolds, the son of Rev. and Mrs. R. L. Reynolds, was killed in a plane crash in the "Atlantic area," according to word sent his parents by the War Department, friends in Frankfort, the family's former home town have just learned.

The message, they said, was brief and gave no details other than that he lost his life in an accidental crash and not while on active patrol or combat duty.

There was considerable speculation both here and at Frankfort over the possibility that he may have been one of those killed when an army bomber plunged into the shallow waters of Sarasota Bay, on the Florida coast, early last Friday. The casualty list of that accident was not given.

Reynolds (it wasn't known what commission he held) enlisted in the Army Air Corps, his Frankfort friends said, more than a year ago and had since been graduated from the ranks of Flying Cadets into a full-fledged pilot. They said they had understood that he had been assigned to a bomber squadron and that he had been flying one of the big warplanes for several weeks. The date of the fatal crash was not given in the War Department telegram.

The Reynolds family had lived in Frankfort, where Rev. Reynolds had held a pastorate for the past 11 years. Only just recently he had been assigned to a church at West Union and he and Mrs. Reynolds went there to make their home this summer.

Pilot Reynolds attended the Frankfort schools and was graduated from the high school there two years ago. He had a wide circle of friends in his home community and many others in southern Fayette County and in Washington C. H., made principally during the football and basketball seasons and when the young people from there came here for evenings of fun.

ELMER L. TRACEY SUMMONED SUNDAY

Retired Insurance Agent III Many Months

Elmer L. Tracey, 70, one of the city's well known residents, who, for years, had been engaged in the insurance business and prior to that had operated a barber shop here for many years, died at his home at 529 East Paint Street, Sunday at 12:20 P. M., following a serious illness that had lasted for 19 months.

Mr. Tracey was born in Fayette County and spent his entire life here. He leaves a wide family connection and a host of friends in the community and elsewhere.

He was a member of the Men's Bible Class of Grace Methodist Church and for years was secretary of the class. He also was secretary of the K. of P. lodge for a number of years and a member of Veterans' Association of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Co.

Surviving are his widow, Mrs. Edith Tracey, two sons, Oliver and Byron, both of Washington C. H.; one daughter, Mrs. Walter Beatty, Washington C. H.; one sister, Mrs. Lillie Pontius, Tarleton, and one brother, M. S. Tracey, this city. Six grandchildren also survive.

Friends may call at the residence until the hour of the funeral.

Funeral services will be held at the Cox and Parrett Funeral Home, Wednesday, at two P. M. and burial made in the Sabina Cemetery.

CLOTHING DEMONSTRATED AT HAPPY CLOTHIERS CLUB

Demonstrations on making clothing interested nine members and one guest of the Happy Clothiers Club of Jeffersonville in the high school building there during their sixth meeting.

The recitation of the 4-H pledge opened the meeting and the roll call was answered by naming a good color combination.

The demonstrations, which took up the most part of the meeting, were given by Lois Ervin, on how to do neat patching; Ada Whitmer, different kinds of seams; Barbara Snyder, on sewing bias tape, and Hazel Swaney, on good treatment of clothing.

What You Buy With WAR BONDS

It's not a pleasant picture to contemplate, but War calls for "blood and sweat and tears." And the Army Medical Corps, with its efficient nurses and its volunteer Red Cross "Angels of Mercy," needs thousands of surgical beds for field and base hospitals on every front.

These beds cost approximately $22 each. They are the latest thing in modern hospital beds, with elevating springs. In some instances surgical cots are used in temporary field hospitals and there is a folding bed which may be used in ambulances. Your purchase of War Bonds and Stamps can buy many of these beds for the Army. You'll sleep better if you know our boys have every hospital comfort. Buy War Bonds every pay day. Invest ten percent of your income.

SPECIAL FLAG DAY SERVICES ARE HELD HERE

Entire Nation Takes Part In General Observance Of Flag Week

A large crowd assembled on the Courthouse lawn at 6 P. M. Sunday for special Flag Day services, featuring the lowering of the flag from the staff on the Courthouse lawn.

Plans for the event had been arranged by a committee headed by Commander Howard Fogle, of Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, and Howard W. Burnett, commander of the Veterans of Foreign Wars. Fogle presided at the meeting.

The Washington High School Band, under the direction of Paul Fitzwater, took a prominent part in the services, playing a series of patriotic numbers.

Attorney Ray R. Maddox delivered the address, speaking of the prominent part that Fayette County men and women had taken in the Civil War, the Spanish American War, World War No. 1 and the present World War.

He paid a beautiful tribute to the flag and the great nation and principles which it represents.

Special Weapons Company of the Ohio State Guard, Paul H. Hughey Post, American Legion, and O. E. Hardway Post, of Veterans of Foreign Wars attended the services in a body, along with representatives of various other patriotic organizations.

The impressive army retreat ceremonies were carried out, with a member of the American Legion and another of the Veterans of Foreign Wars, lowering the flag, as the band played the national anthem.

The special Flag Day services were part of a nation-wide observance of Flag Week, which continues through this week.

While there were a great many flags on display in the residential sections as well as the business area of the city, Sunday, a still greater display is being urged for the remainder of this week.

In a week-end of parading and saluting, Ohioans generally paid honor to the flag of their country and to the nations with which America is allied in war.

It was a two-day celebration of Flag Day and MacArthur Day—and Ohio put on a good show.

The greatest was in Columbus, where some 15,000 persons marched in the biggest parade ever seen in the city. Officials estimated that upward of 100,000 saw the marchers.

Cleveland had its parade Saturday. Spectators applauded a group of Chinese carrying the flag of their land, and to the hammer and sickle emblem of the Soviet Republics. Cincinnati held its parade Sunday with the massing of colors in front of the Courthouse.

At Tiffin, Milo J. Warner, of Toledo, former national commander of the American Legion, asserted in a speech that "while we must look ahead to the future and the winning of the peace," we must first win the war."

Union chiefs stressed national unity and exhorted workers to boost war production at a victory rally of some 1,000 members of the CIO, AFL and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen at Youngstown.

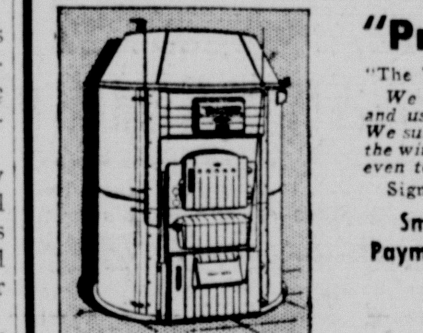

At Hamilton a new 55-foot flagpole at the High Street Courthouse entrance was dedicated and a flag, 10 by 14 feet, was raised.

CCC MAY BE ABOLISHED BUT NYA POSITION FIRM

REAL ESTATE BOARD TO MEET WEDNESDAY

Realtors Are To Gather for Supper at Leesburg

The Tri-County Real Estate Board, made up of realtors in Fayette, Clinton and Highland counties, will hold its June meeting in Turner's Restaurant in Leesburg, Wednesday at 7 P. M., according to an announcement by S. A. Ringer of Leesburg, the publicity committee chairman.

This is to be a supper meeting, the announcement said, and members of the group are inviting all real estate brokers in the three counties, whether they are members or not, to attend.

Thurman (Dusty) Miller, the Wilmington humorist with the homespun philosophy, is to address the gathering.

Ringer is to take the role of host and Amos G. Smith of Hillsboro is to preside over the after-dinner program and discussions.

Members of the group here said most of the real estate operators of Fayette County planned to attend the meeting.

From our own Fayette County boys who are in the service, we quote - -

"The USO is the best insurance against home - sickness that you could invest in."—Herbert Sollars.

"If USO could not expand with our expanding army I believe it would injure morale."—Lt. Donald Friend.

"The people in charge are very friendly and take pains to aid the service men in every way."—Robert Cook.

"They furnish soldiers good entertainment and recreation and don't think it isn't good to get a little change from army routine once in a while."—Jim Schwart.

The USO is the only organization that is taking care of the recreation and entertainment of our boys in the service. It is one way for all of us to aid directly in the war effort by building the morale of those who are doing our fighting for us.
